DROP IN UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE CLAIMS

Increased job opportunities due to seasonal activities in most sections of Maine caused a drop in initial claims for Unemployment Insurance of about 44% during the month of June, according to a summary of 16 Local Office reports made by the Maine Employment Security Commission.

Job orders filed in the local offices came from the construction industry (road and building); shoe manufacturing; cotton and woolen textiles; machinery manufacturing; canned seafood; fish meal; pulp and paper, food procession and for harvesting of agricultural products, as well as from miscellaneous industries and woods work.

Available labor could not meet all needs, particularly in the demands for woods workers and importation of labor had to be made into many sections. Skilled workers such as loomfixers, machinists, qualified office workers were hard, fancy stitchers carpenters, and to obtain in many sections of the State. Cooks and chefs for seasonal resorts and even common laborers were in short supply in some sections.

The 16 local employment offices of the Commission made 10,847 referrals to jobs during June and 7335 were actually placed in jobs for which they were qualified. Although supplies of labor were quite adequate to meet most demands early in June, a tightly balanced labor market developed in many areas the latter part of the month and shortages in some classifications are already beginning to develop because of heavy seasonal demands. The Youth Farm Labor Program carried on each year by the Commission, to help in raising and harvesting the varied vegetable crops of the State, is now in full swing and thousands of Youths and female workers, not ordinarily in the labor market, will be utilized during the next several weeks.

Ned Hastings, who has been spending a short vacation at his home on Broad Street with his parents, Mr and Mrs Harold Hastings, returned to Dorchester, Mass, Saturday.

MRS. THURSTON HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

On Saturday, July 7, Mrs Tena Thurston was honor guest at a dinner party tendered by her daughter, Mrs Ralph Young, in observance of Mrs Thurston's birthday which occurred the following day.

The delicious dinner, prepared and served by Mrs Lulu Eames and Mrs Alice Tripp, assisted by some of the guests, was greatly enjoyed by eighteen relatives and friends. The dinner was served on the porch.

A pleasing feature of the occasion was the presentation of a birthday cake and gifts by Pamela and Donald Young, great grandchildren of Mrs Thurston, and Ann Morton, her great grandniece. The children were attractively dressed in mirth-provoking costumes.

An original poem written and read by Miss Carrie Wight, was much enjoyed.

"Aunt Tena" in spite of her four score years, is one of those people who will never grow old and her alert mind with its sparkling wit added much to the joy of her guests.

After an afternoon of pleasant sociability, the party broke up with anticipations of "Aunt Tena's" next birthday party which has been made an annual event by Mrs Young.

The following were present: Mr and Mrs Owen Cole and Mrs Barbara Potter of Berlin, Mrs Elsie Peabody and Mrs Polly Fogg of Crystal, N. H., Mrs Marjorie Hanson, Mrs Adelia Morton and daughter, Mrs Fred Wight, Miss Carrie Wight, of North Newry, Miss Edna Reynolds, Portland, Mr and Mrs Richard Young and two children, Mr and Mrs Ralph Young and the honor guest.

SCS-PMA DEVELOPING 1952 CONSERVATION PROGRAM

Soil Conservation Service people and the Production and Marketing Administration Committee in Oxford County have checked recommendations for the 1952 Agricultural Conservation Program, according to PMA Chairman Robert D Hastings of Bethel. In the past, the chairman explains, these recommendations have been the responsibility of the PMA Committee but this year, under the consolidated program, the Soil Conservation Representatives share in the responsibility. Those who assisted in the 1952 Program effort are George S Rupp and Douglas Marston of the Soil Conservation Service. Robert D Hastings, Philip G Andrews, and Howard F Sturtevant, County Committeemen, and R H Lovejoy, Farmer-Fieldman, of the Production and Marketing Administration. Others who has helped in the work are Foster Gordon, County Extension Agent, W Robert Dinneen and Sumner Burgess of the State Forest Service, and Benjamin Curtis of the Farmers Home Administration.

Arrangements also have been completed to the PMA, FHA, and SCS Offices together. The Soil Conservation Service and Production and Marketing Offices already are consolidated in the Masonic Building, South Paris and, by August 1, the Farmers Home Administration will be in adjoining rooms on the third floor of this building.

Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service now are available to help in drawing up specifications for permanent conservation practices. Particular attention is being paid to practices emphasized in conservation districts. Among these practices are those for soil erosion control, such as strip cropping and farming on the contour, and those for water control and water storage, such as diversion ditches, sod waterways, drainage systems, and farm ponds for irrigation or livestock water.

West Maine Firemen Meet

One of the most interesting meetings in the history of either organization was held Thursday evening, July 12, when the Western Maine Firemen's Association and the Cumberland County Volunteer Firemen's Association met in a joint session at Norway. This is the third time a joint meeting of the Associations has been held.

The meeting was called to order with President Lyman Ela, of Fryeburg, in the chair for the WMFA, and President Guy Rowe, of Freeport, presiding for the CCVFA. The group was welcomed to Norway by Town Manager Archie Stevens and Lyman Ela responded. President Rowe told of the next meeting of the CCVFA which will be held Thursday, August 9, in the Fish and Game Building, Freeport.

Chief Homer Luck, Norway, then introduced the main speaker of the evening, William White, former member of the New York City Fire Department. Mr White, who lost his sight about three years ago, kept the audience in an uproar for nearly an hour with rib-tickling anecdotes concerning his life since his tragedy. He described home problems, problems concerned with traveling, his experiences with life itself. Then, lapsing into the more serious side, Mr White told of the training of his ever-present guide dog, a beautiful black and white spotted Dalmatian. He explained the problems of a blind person in getting such an animal, and told of the great advantages of having one.

In the opinion of all present Mr White was undoubtedly the best speaker ever obtained at such a meeting. At present he is located at a cottage in Waterford.

Fire Chief J Coleman Miller of Auburn spoke on mutual aid between departments. A surprise speaker of the evening was Austin H Wilkins, Deputy Forest Commissioner, Augusta. He explained the help the Associations have given the forestry department in past years. Mr Wilkins complimented Mr White for his interesting talk.

Fred Holt of the forestry department added to Mr Wilkins' subject. Chief John Fox, Lovell, made a few brief remarks, followed by a very brief address from Assistant Chief Clifford Bronson of Harrison. Chief Luck demonstrated Norway's new resuscitator.

The meeting adjourned at 10 30 in favor of a bountiful lunch served by the ladies of the auxiliary. The next meeting of the CCVFA will be in Freeport on Thursday, August 9, while the WMFA will convene in the Red Men's Hall at North Fryeburg on Monday, August 13.

Present at Norway were 127 members, representing 28 towns as follows: Auburn 1, Augusta 2, Baldwin 10, Bethel 4, Bridgton 6, Brownfield 2, Conway, N. H., 2, East Raymond 6, Falmouth 5, Freeport 4, Fryeburg 12, Gorham 1, Harrison 9, Hebron 1, Hiram 5, Lovell 12, Mechanic Falls 1, New Gloucester 2, North Fryeburg 2, Norway 31, Otisfield 3, South Bridgton 3, Sumner 2, Sweden 7, Windham 6, Yarmouth 2.

EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is Chairman of the Board of the Labor - Management Foundation and Executive Editor of its official publication, PARTNERS.

There appeared recently in a New England newspaper an editorial which pointed out that American railroads seem to be out of step with other segments of American business. This is rank discrimination against the railroads that are so vital to our National Defense Program. To keep them strong and healthy competition for traffic by requiring all forms of carriers to be put on an equitable basis to stand on their own feet and pay their own way in full.

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

How To Conquer Fear

JAMES M. BIRD, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, says, "If you would be sure of controlling your fears, literally burn your bridges behind you so you will have no avenue of escape. Then advance against your fears and destroy them—before they can destroy you."

By the time James was 13 years old he was six feet tall and rather frail. Standing head and shoulders above his classmates made him self-conscious and in time he developed a terrible inferiority complex.

Carnegie

Whenever he engaged in sports he made a poor showing, and because of his not strong constitution he often suffered injury. When he a little later enrolled in a school of commerce, he brought all his worries and fears right along with him, and as a consequence, although his classmates were a friendly lot, he failed to make a single friend during the four months he was there.

It was the army that took him out of his dilemma. He worked hard and obtained a commission, believing this would help him to face the two things he feared most: people and what he thought was cowardice.

One day the test came. He went into action with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. He experienced terrifying fear time after time, his blood ran cold, his knees turned to jelly. But as he came through each experience he said to himself, "I was afraid, but here I am." And he realized anew each time that he could control his fear, and that through this fear he was really becoming a better leader of men.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

To point to the obvious, this country, in company with most of the allegedly civilized world, is living on a war economy. Today's tremendous national income and "prosperity" is to a very great extent the direct result of wars—past, present and potential.

"One year after Korea, the U. S. finds itself well along the road to the garrison state," said Business Week in one of its June issues. "Military buying now is the biggest single force in the economy.

Between June, 1950, and this June, deliveries of military goods have doubled. In the coming year, they are due to double again. Toward the end of 1952, or possibly the first quarter of 1953, they will reach the maximum demanded by present mobilization plans. By then the U. S. will be channeling 20 per cent of its national output into defense and defense-supporting production."

The effects of rearmament naturally vary greatly from industry to industry. In some fields, such as electronic devices, military orders are taking most of the output now and in time may take virtually all of it. The aircraft industry is 95 per cent devoted to defense work. And, of course, a very high percentage of metals—steel, copper, nickel—are going for military and allied uses, and the proportion is due to continue to rise.

As Business Week puts it, "Even though military orders are fitting fairly smoothly into the economy they are putting a strain on manpower and materials supplies. The big complaint of defense contractors all over the country is: We can't get an even flow of materials, and we can't get the workers we need to process the materials we do have." The magazine quotes one St. Louis manufacturer as saying that, in spite of his defense order priorities, he had to buy materials in the black market. It quotes a West Coast producer as complaining, "You can get people all right, but not workers. They haven't any skills, they haven't any interest. They just stand there." This manpower problem, in all probability, will be the toughest nut to crack in the long run. It is estimated that by the end of the current year about [illegible] civilians will be needed in defense jobs. A very substantial part of them will have to leave work in what is considered non-essential enterprise and move into the essential industries.

However, few think that severe civilian shortages will develop, save in a few specialized lines, unless a big war comes along. The belief is that American productivity can handle the defense load and the normal civilian load at the same time. Many kinds of goods are actually in surplus now, as the recent price wars in New York and other cities demonstrated. Those wars were largely the consequence of excessively large inventories — consumer buying hadn't been as great as had been anticipated. So, when the Supreme Court knocked the Fair Trade laws on the head, dealers began unloading at prices people would pay.

At any rate, the sad fact is that war is again dominating our whole economy. Military buying is now running at the rate of $26,000,000,000 a year. It will rise swiftly and sharply.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Anaheim, Calif., Bulletin: "Our nation is one of the few in the world in which free thought, criticism and truths can still be presented to the public. We take it for granted that this freedom will continue. But the present President recognizes the value of the press and its ability to mold and measure public opinion and reaction. Every day some new measures are introduced that would place newspapers under governmental censorship. So far these measures have been defeated or are amended to become worthless. A free press means a free people. We must remain alert to keep it so."

Philadelphia, Pa., Trades Union News: "Karl Marx, the fellow who wrote the creed of communism, had something to say about taxation. He said that capitalism, which means our system of free initiative, enterprise and progress, will eventually be destroyed by 'taxes, taxes and still more taxes.' He even predicted that democratic, capitalist countries would, if left to their own devices finally tax their economic systems to death and thus bring in communism. Well, taxation can do just that, if carried too far. The people who are continually fighting for more tax money to spend, even though their proposals may be excellent and even though some of the additional tax money might be used to benefit the people generally, should take the Marxian precept to heart. Taxes can kill our economy."

Madison, Georgia, News: "There seems to be some in Washington that are afraid the MacArthur-Truman-Acheson controversy will reveal our plans to the Russians. . . The thing that we think they are most worried about is that the people are about to find out how near Communistic our government has become."

My Kingdom For A Government Job?

The owner of a small business establishment in Denver has met the Federal government in the field of competition and has lost. He's about ready to close up shop and "jine 'em." When you've read the account of his plight as published in the Denver Lions City bulletin, you can understand why he is wondering whether there's any future for private enterprise. (There is, of course, if the excessive growth of government can be halted.)

But the Denver business man the outlook is gloomy. He seems almost to have good cause to wonder whether we shouldn't all lay down our cares and get on the Federal payroll. Here's why: A new Federal agency recently set up shop in Denver. It hired a lot of stenographers away from their regular jobs. "It took my secretary, Dorothy," reports the business man, "paying her $2,660 a year to start, and giving her 26 days' vacation and 15 days sick leave. I, who happen to be in a highly competitive field, cannot afford to meet these terms and couldn't if I wanted to."

He's Whipped

He couldn't, he points out, because the Federal government won't let him. The government has frozen the prices on his merchandise—so he can't make more money. "And then," he moans, "in order to keep down inflation, the government tells me I cannot pay the salary the government offered Dorothy." But the irony of the whole thing, the lick that really crumpled his last resistance, was the latest news from Washington, in the Federal government was saying, to him in effect: "Because we're going to pay Dorothy more money than you could, we are going to have to increase your taxes again."

That did it! And it's enough to make all of us groan—for the new tax increase demanded by the President and the Federal Treasurer is for $10½ billion and it would drastically boost the heavy tax load we're already carrying. The Denver business man now wants a government job himself. "In my present condition," he says, (with his secretary hired away by the government, his earning capacity and future prosperity jeopardized by government restrictions, and with another heavy blow from the tax collector in the offings, "I could certainly use a government job".

Going Up

One reason why the Federal government is telling us that we must cheerfully accept a drastic hike in taxes, and thus a cut in our earning power is given in the latest tabulation on government employment. For the 11th straight month, civilian employment in the Executive Branch has increased at the rate of more than 1,000 people a day.

LOOKING AHEAD

by GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

That adds up to 335,000 new stenographers, clerks, bureau executives, chauffers, publicity men, etc., in less than a year. It also adds up to a total Federal civilian payroll of 2,443,076, as of June 1, 1951. And to get to the meat in the coconut, it adds up to more than $8 billion being paid out of our tax money each year for just the salaries and off-time for the huge and ever-lasting expanding army of civilian workers on the Federal payrolls!

Pay for Idleness.

A second reason why we're being told we must make personal sacrifices and submit to a huge new tax assessment on our earnings is that the Federal government is paying out hundreds of millions of dollars annually for unnecessary, unjustified idleness. Counting "sick leave" vacation time (five weeks) and holidays, most of the 2,443,076 civilians on the Federal payrolls get 10 weeks off every year at full pay—at least six weeks more than non-government workers.

This extra time off "gift" from the taxpayers—with the approval of Congress—is estimated to cost nearly $1,000,000,000 annually. Why must the Treasury, into which our hard-earned money goes, be saddled with this huge unnecessary expense? And what about the value of great numbers of the government workers while they're on duty? An ex-governor of Georgia, friend of the administration, quit his Washington job in disgust, saying that he "hadn't hit a lick of work" while sitting in an office drawing fat government checks. He also said similar conditions existed throughout the whole Federal bureaucracy, with people actually faking work at their desks!

If these unwholesome conditions are not corrected very soon the Federal payroll will begin to swallow up and smother American prosperity and progress. It is time now, while we still have government "by the people," to demand an end to such wholesale waste of our money and our energies.

The Christian graces are like perfumes, and the more they are pressed the sweeter they are. Francis Beaumont.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

THERE IS ABOUT a two to one chance that the peace talks now going on in Korea between representatives of General Matthew Ridgway and Red China may be successful. Likely if the cease fire order holds good, there will be discussion looking toward an armistice, but when peace will come will depend upon weeks of discussion.

In the meantime, the government here in Washington is operating on a stop gap basis. Since no appropriation bills were passed by the congress when the end of the fiscal year, June 30, rolled around, it was necessary to pass emergency stop gap bills in order that the agencies of government could function and the employees be paid.

By the same token, neither house or senate could get together on an extension of the highly important national defense act, which also expired June 30, so after an all-night session, congress passed a 31-day extension of the act, but hedged it about with a ban on any roll-back in prices during that 31 days. So the consumers who were due to reap the benefit of some price roll backs on thousands of articles which the office of price stabilization had already ordered effective July 2, will be prevented from cashing in on those lower prices.

OPS was forced to issue a quick price freeze again on these articles as of June 30. These price roll-backs would have applied to machinery, cotton textiles, shoes, wearing apparel and many household appliances and such items as bolts, screws, nuts, plumbing and drainage specialties, builders hardware, soaps, cleansers, watches, mattresses and box springs, agricultural insecticides and other items.

What will happen to the foreign aid program, including the Marshall Plan and the aid asked for by General Eisenhower is still to be seen. It may be that some stop-gap legislation will be necessary to keep the country from lapsing or repudiating some of its commitments under these programs.

Because of Democrat increases in the senate, such as the replacement of GOP Senator Vandenberg, deceased, by Senator Blair Moody of Michigan, two Republicans have been ousted from important committee posts on the senate appropriations and banking and currency. The two senators bumped were those with lowest seniority, Senators McCarthy of Wisconsin and Bennett of Utah. The GOP assigned McCarthy to the senate rules committee and Bennett was assigned to postoffice and civil service committee.

This leaves McCarthy without a major committee assignment. In the meantime, a resolution adopted by the Young Republicans of the Eighth District of Wisconsin, Senator McCarthy's home district, urging McCarthy's defeat in 1952, was given widespread publicity here. The resolution urged the McCarthy defeat on grounds that he has accomplished nothing of importance during his five years in office and "has engaged in character assassination and mud slinging tactics, thus discouraging good men from holding office."

The house on a roll call of 240 to 130 passed a bill authorizing the importation of Mexican farm labor and permitting farmers to employ Mexican "wet-backs"—those entering the country illegally. A similar bill authorizing recruitment of Mexican farm labor was passed by the senate May 7, but the senate bill contained an amendment making employment of "wet-backs" a felony.

The senate crime investigating committee now is engaged in a probe of narcotics in the country. As a result of its hearing, nineteen narcotics control bills have been introduced in this congress, largely protecting minors from drug addiction. In the entire 81st Congress only one measure was introduced.

Strangely enough, two former topnotch government employees upheld the morals and ethics of the average government employee in Washington in testimony before Senator Paul Douglas' senate labor subcommittee on ethics in government. They were former Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes and former chairman of the atomic energy commission, David Lilienthal

Aunt Tena,
When July 8th comes round each year,
You find a group assembled here
To say hello and howdy do;
With wishes for your birthday, too.
If one says Teny's an old lady
His mind must be a little shady:
For you're as dear and trim as when sweet sixteen,
Though scores of years have come between.
Years that have brought you many friends
To whom your presence gladness lends,
Friends who like to chat with you,
And always hate to say adieu.
So thoughtful, happy, and serene,
With wits so marvelously keen:
You're like a magnet to each one,
For well she knows she'll have some fun!
We're here at your daughter's invitation,
To share with others of your relation
The joy it brings to Erma dear
To give you a party from year to year
We're grateful to her and also to you
For this opportunity to bring to you
Our birthday wishes warm and true
Please accept them and keep them till next July,
When we will come back with a new supply

PAST MASTERS OF PLEASANT VALLEY GRANGE

The following poem by Mrs Addie Kendall Mason was written for Past Masters' Night of Pleasant Valley Grange, West Bethel, which was observed on Thursday evening, July 12.

Past Masters

Where Waumbec's foot hills come
To Androscoggin's foam
And shadows of those high tops
Even reach our Grange's home;
All about like Fairies light,
We know there's nothing dearer
Then a Pleasant Valley night!

And we're a bunch of Grangers,
Just real and busy folks;
Oft we work and play together
And laugh at each others jokes!
Now Past Masters we are greeting
Giving each a good right hand,
For we know how well they've labored
For our old Fraternal band!

Douglas Cushing, busy worker,
Helping all along Life's way!
Edmund Smith a brawny farmer
Raising "White Heads" fills his day!
Bernard Rolfe, a hustling woodsman
Yet a-fishing he will go!
Herman Bennett, real "Steam Engine"
And at fishing, he's not slow!
Adrian Grover, rather quiet,
Always quick with helping hand!
Olive Head, our "Gracious Lady"
Smiles and deeds at her command!
Randall Gilbert, happy camper
And a Guardsman too, you know!
Marion Kendall, never idle
Full of "Pep" where e'er he'll go
Someone mentions Gerald Cushing
Granger in a far off town,
He was once our Lively Master
Now as teacher wins renown;
Each one sure deserves more mention,
They're a record good and bright.
We would love to tell more of them
As we honor them tonight!
Tho' I am an old time Granger
I'd dare not tell the years
That each one has been our Master
Helping on through hopes and fears
But I bring to them a message
From all members of this Grange,
May they never lose their courage
And from Duty never range!
"Up and doing" be a motto
"Ever onward" be your road,
If a brother seems to tire
Help him quickly with his load!
These have truly been your watchwords
In the years of work and play,
And we bring you many "thank you's"
For your help along the way
You have worked for better going
Climbing up Adventure's hill,
When we hit the "rocks" and "mud holes"
Why! you boosted with a will!
And we hope Good Luck may always
Be with you in all you do!
Now to Grange work e'er be faithful
So Past Masters! Here's to You!

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Miss Connie Carlman, Seaford, Del.: I remember, back in the old days, when we couldn't make it up a hill in first gear, we'd turn our old Ford around and back it up. In those days, reverse was more powerful than first.

From Mrs. Nettie Allen, Covina, Calif.: I remember the first washboard in our neighborhood. An old colored man made it by hand. He cut down the tree, sawed out the blocks, and then sawed it long way for the board. Then with a knife, chisel and sandpaper, he turned out a very good likeness of a washboard.

From Percy Hasten, Marshall, Ill.: I remember when the Prince Albert coat was quite in style. Our family physician began wearing one of the coats when he was dressed up. He told of hearing a small boy remark, "Gee, does that fellow have to wear his overcoat in the summertime?"

From Mrs. Mary E. Miller, Crowley, Col.: When my husband was nine years old, he lived near a slaughter house. The men used to call him and say, "Hi, kid, want some ox tails and liver?" They would give him all he could carry, and load his arms with ox tails like cord wood.

From Peter Y. Miller, Crowley, Col.: I remember, when I was five years old, coming into Denver on the first train, August, 1870. We had to keep stopping to let the herds of buffalo get off the track.

"No, thanks,
...I'm driving"

Smart man!

He keeps his car in safe driving condition...and he keeps himself in condition to drive it safely.

Are you one of those drivers who honestly believe that a drink or two can have no effect on your driving ability? The fact is that just one or two drinks is enough to make an otherwise safe driver a very real danger to himself and others.

The records are full of statistics proving that drinking drivers are three or four times more likely to have an accident than those who do not drink. You may be far from drunk—you may not even 'feel' your drink—but the unavoidable result of drinking even a small amount of alcohol is to impair your judgment and slow up your reactions. You may think you are just as 'quick on the trigger' after a drink or so, but medical science says you're not.

This impairment of your judgment and reactions may be measured in split-seconds, but split-seconds are ages in emergencies. So why court unnecessary danger? There's no point in arguing with alcoholic beverages . . . you can't win. You'll be wiser—and far safer—to pass up the drink and step into your car with the serene assurance that your driving is absolutely under your own control.

"Much of the misery caused by drinking drivers is due to the men and women who "Wouldn't think of driving when I'm drunk." To these thousands there is no danger in driving after one or two, or "a few" drinks. It is they, not the stumbling drunk, who kill and cripple. Call it "tight," "feeling good," or "drunk," it really doesn't matter. What does matter is that your reactions, your perceptions, your attitude are all changed after one or two drinks."

. . . Taken from the TRAVELERS 1948 Book of Street and Highway Accident Data

Patrons of more than 42,000 Post Offices found the new money order available Monday morning, July 2.

Principal changes in the new money order system will make it possible to have a money order cashed at any of the nation's post offices or it may be collected through any bank in the same manner as the depositing or cashing of a check.

The new money order appears in the form of a punched card instead of the customary paper slip and purchasers will fill out the same form and pay the same fees as has been required in the past.

The regulation that money orders must be cashed at specific post offices has been eliminated. Under the old system, it will be recalled, a money order had to be cashed in the office to which it was issued. It is was cashed at a post office in another city an additional fee was charged.

The new system makes available to the Post Office Department the most advanced electronic business machines. One machine, the IBM Type 808 Proof Machine, has been especially developed for the new money order purposes and it combines all the advantages of the modern proof machine in widespread use by banks and large department stores throughout the country. Another of the principal machines to be used with the new system is the Electronic Statistical Machine, workhorse of the 1950 Census tabulation.

The Postmaster General described the inauguration of the new money order system as the largest single accounting change ever made in postal history and said, that the development comes after exhaustive study by the Post Office Department, the General Accounting Office, the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board.

The Department urges users to remember that the new money orders must not be folded, stapled, spindled or mutilated in any way since they are to be issued on punch cards and processed by machinery.

Last year more than 300,000,000 money orders, totaling upward to five billion dollars were issued and paid by the Post Office Department.

The new money order system will be under the management and supervision of Assistant Postmaster General Osborne A. Pearson, who directs the Department's Bureau of Finance.

All new money orders will clear Federal Reserve Banks in the same manner as Treasury checks or othbanks will then turn over the paid or cash items. The Federal Reserve money orders to the proper regional Post Offices.

The new money order system is in keeping with the program to modernize and improve the operation of the postal service, as well as to effect economy and the better to serve the general public.

TESTING FOR BANG'S DISEASE UNDERWAY IN COUNTY

Area testing for Bang's disease (brucellosis) is now underway in Oxford County, reports Foster I Gordon, of South Paris, Oxford County Agent for the Maine Extension Service.

Three technicians are working on the test in the county at present. They are Roland Strong, Harry Grady, and Galen Kennedy. They are working for the State Department of Agriculture, which does the testing free for all farmers in the county. The Extension Service is cooperating in the educational phase of the Bang's disease testing program.

County Agent Gordon asks the cooperation of all farmers in Oxford County. "We want this test to take in every dairy animal in the county," he says. "Please try to have someone present on the farm to help the technician hold the animals while the blood sample is being taken.

"Also if you learn from your neighbors that the technicians have been working in your area and have missed your herd, please contact me. I'll check with the technicians and ask them to go back and sample your herd," adds the County Agent.

"I'm sure that every Oxford county farmer wants to know the status of his herd in regard to Bang's disease," says Gordon. "This free area test is a wonderful opportunity to make sure your herd is clean."

County Agent Gordon is located in the Extension Service Office in the Masonic Building in South Paris.

The LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

To my nice—but sleepy—readers, I am going to make one more effort to get you out of the notion that it is none of your affairs as to what is going on in places like far away Tennessee's TVA. Here I am 2000 miles away myself, but I know that this super-socialist growth is costing me plenty, and menacing my future. I have been around powerhouses a lot—made a living switching kilowatts around hither and yon, so I am not talking through my fedora when I write down here this warning.

Congress could apply some brakes to further socialist expansion but Congress has been a sucker. Hopes that Congress can be made to see the light are dependent upon you. You have got to lay down the law to the guy or Big Govt. will get bigger and bigger and come closer and closer to you and your own business. It is the electric business that is first on the program—you are next, sure as tomorrow's sun will brighten the horizon.

Socialism is not around the corner, it is here, in broad daylight to look at. It looks depressing but it is not hopeless. Have an auction, let the highest bidders get all these Govt electric ventures or we are sunk as a Republic.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

PRESSURE COOKER GAUGES CAN BE CHECKED

Pressure cooker gauges should be checked before the beginning of the canning season to be sure they are accurate. The Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs Ruth DeCoteau, will glady check yours, if you wish to bring it to the Extension Office at South Paris. Your gauge should be removed from the cover before bringing it to the office. If the Home Demonstration Agent is not in the office, the gauge can be left and called for later.

HICKEY SUGGESTS SIDE-DRESSING SWEET CORN NOW

To encourage more rapid and healthful growth of sweet corn, Joseph Hickey, Maine Extension Service canning crops and vegetable specialist, suggests side-dressing it now and when it's knee high. Use 200 pounds per acre of nitrate of soda, or 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate, or 150 pounds of sulfate of ommonia. Corn borer control using Ryania if fodder is to be fed to livestock or DDT if not is also recommended for good quality sweet corn.

THIRD MAINE PRODUCTS WEEK AUG. 5-11

Governor Frederick G Payne today called attention to Maine Products Week, which is being observed August 5-11.

"It is my belief that one of the many projects, sponsored by the Maine State Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with local chambers of commerce, which deserves real commendation is "Maine Products Week."

"This year marks the third annual drive for bringing to the attention of the citizens of Maine, as well as the million or more out-of-state visitors expected in Maine, the volume, quality and diversity of our Maine products.

"Past observances have produced gratifying results. Merchants, who are cooperating in this effort to aid existing industrial operations and to encourage new concerns to locate in Maine, have found this to be one of the finest promotional plans ever carried out and at little cost.

"The cooperation of our radio stations and newspapers have resulted in widespread publicity of this worthwhile event. The program planned this year has every indication of bringing even greater results, which means new potential customers for our Maine concerns and added employment for our highly skilled and competent workers," said Governor Payne.

TWO-YEAR COURSE IN AGRICULTURE OPEN TO ALL INTERESTED

The newly revised two-year course in agriculture at the University of Maine is open to all young men intending to make farming their career, says Associate Dean Winthrop C Libby. Free copies of a new publication describing the course may be had by writing to him at the College of Agriculture, Winslow Hall, Orono. The leaflet, illustrated with many pictures of University life and the two-year course activities, is called "Scientific Training for Practical Farming."
